LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JANUARY 26, 1861.

uniked "Mr. Hunt," were on Thesday, seized by order of the Superintendent of Police. It appears that Sergeant Denton, of the First District, received information that the weapons were on board the vessel, and telegraphed to the Superinendent of Police for Instructions. He premptly received an order to selze the arms as contraband, and he did so. They remained until late in the afternoon on pler 12, North River. The Times of Welnesday says:

Due of the murkels was exhibited by the police to those corrians enough to examine it. If it be like the others, they are probably all of English manufacture, having the stamp "Windsor, 1878, with a British crown and arrow-head on the lockplate. It was also stamped "AI" on the larred. It had a percussion lock and was provided with the new fashioned elevated sight. The rammed was shaped for the use of the Minie ball. The weapon was pronounced by persons familiar with such malters to be of the improved kind.

The cases were consigned to two different persons. THE subscriber having a large stock of Ladies' and Gent's Winter Book, Slose, and Galters on hand of Gent's Winter Book, Slose, and Galters on hand of Gent's Winter Book, and solven a largest freeded from the commodated at the very low price of $1487 pair, for which only:
